Training for Child Care Providers

Creating a Narrative Classroom: Using Storytelling to Develop Oral Language, Comprehension, and a Bridge to Writing

Trainer: April Cox, Rockingham County Partnership for Children

An early literacy based training open to all Caswell County Providers at NO COST. Storytelling is one of the oldest art forms and is a common form of entertainment and a way people pass their beliefs, values and traditions from one generation to the next. Early childhood educators can use this powerful social and emotional experience in the classroom to foster oral language, teach and develop children's early literacy skills, promote creative thinking and build cultural awareness.
